Local and General:

Judging from the present price of hen fruit, before spring it will be fairly difficult to distinguish between the BIG MAN and the YEGG MAN.

R. M. Tucker, who was in charge of the bank during the absence of Mr. Bray, is at present enjoying a holiday in the north country.

McRory and Sons have just opened out a direct importation of Xmas China.

G. L. Rinehart who has been threshing in the east district has moved his outfit across to Munson.

D. J. and Fred McKay, who have been at their homesteads near Drumheller arrived home at Thanksgiving to spend a week or so.

Lee Ableman met with what might have been a more serious accident when he came in contact with the drive belt of the threshing machine, one day last week. As it was he was badly shaken up and will be off work for some little time.

The Canadian Bank of Commerce is adding to the appearance of their premises by placing an ornamental fence along the front.

Quite a number of the residents of the town have the moving fever. H. Goodland is moving down to the Edward residence, F. Mossop is going into the Boyle cottage, D. McArthur has moved to the house east of E. H. Morrow and D. McFadyen has set up his residence in his own house in town.

If you require to renew your old Loan or take out a new one call and see me, as I can save you money. I represent the N. of Scotland Can. Mortgage Co., The Canada Life, and others. CHAS. HULTGREN.

The subject the Rev. J. P. Berry is taking for his address on Sunday next, November 2nd, at Rodney, Tan-y-Bryn and Crossfield, will be "The Gospel of the Farmer, Christianity's Message to the Farmer."

Mrs. C. Weber and children left town on Monday last for North Dakota, Mr. Weber accompanying them as far as Calgary. Mrs. Weber has recently recovered from illness and we hope the change will be the means of her complete recovery to good health. They expect to be back for Christmas.

Through agitation the U.F.A. and Grain Growers Grain Co. have started a market in Calgary to handle members of the U.F.A. produce on commission for cash. Address Grain Growers Grain Co., Calgary, Stall 23, for information Phone or see THOS. FITZGERALD.

A Different Gift

An artist relates that a betrothed lover commissioned him to paint a certain secluded nook in the rocks on the shore, because there he had declared his passion.

The picture was painted, but before it was done the lover said to the artist:

"Of course, I will see you through on that picture, but my engagement is off and naturally it would be painfully suggestive to me. If you can sell it to somebody else I will take another picture and be extremely obliged by it."

The painter assented to the arrangement, but within a week his patron presented himself.

"It's all right," he announced. "I will take that picture."

An "I to congratulate you on the renewal of your engagement!" the artist said.

The other seemed a little confused, but quickly recovered his self-possession, and laughed as he said:

"Well, not exactly; it was the same place, but the girl was different."

He Found Out

The little aristocratic village was billed with "Lecture on Keats," for over a fortnight. The evening arrived at length, bringing the lecturer ready to discourse on the poet.

The advertised chairman, taken ill at the last moment, was replaced by a local farmer. This worthy introduced the lecturer, and terminated his remarks by saying:

"And now, my friends, we shall soon know what I personally have often wondered—what are Keats?"

Many children die from the assaults of worms, and the first care of mothers should be to see that their infants are free from these pests. A vermifuge that can be depended on is Miller's Worm Powder.

Not only expel worms from the system, but act as a health-giving medicine and a remedy for many of the ailments that beset infants, enfeebling them and endangering their lives.

Short Distance Writer

Well, George, said a Georgia man not long ago to an old dater in his employ, I understand that you intend to give your son an education.

That's my intention, sir, responded George. I know myself what 'tis to struggle along without learnin' an' I has determined my son ain't goin' to have no sich trouble as I had.

In your son learning rapidly?

He shore is, sah. Last week he done write a letah to his aunt what lives more'n 20 miles from here an' afterwhile he's going to write to his aunt dat lives 'bout 60 miles from here.

Why don't he write to that aunt now? smilingly asked the employer.

He can't write so fur yet, sah. He kin write 20 miles fast rate, but I telt him not to try 60 miles (ill he gits strongah wif his pen.

Farmer's Wife—No, then, you just clear out. When I gave you a splendid pair of boots a month ago, you promised me you wouldn't trouble me again.

Persistent Peter—Neither would I, must, only the boots 'ere worn out, so I thought I'd ask you if you'd mind havin' 'em mended 'n' send 'em for me?

Why Americans Buy

The influx of American farmers in to the Canadian west is a solid proof of that country's attraction, says the Scottish-American. The American agriculturist is for the most part, a shrewd and practical man, who knows good land when he sees it, and who understands what he can make it produce. His standard of land values is the market price of land in his own State. When he sees that he can buy in Canada equally good or better land for a quarter of its real value as judged by his standard what wonder that he grasps the opportunity? He buys his new farm in Canada with the certain knowledge that he can make a good living off it, and in the confident expectation that it will gradually and steadily increase in market value, just as agricultural land in his own State has risen in value from the low level of $10 per acre or less to its present value of something like $100 per acre. He understands in fact the intrinsic value of land is at present priced far below its real value.

Stranger Than Fiction

By the way, said the romantic of the smoking-room the other day, I don't think I ever told you of a curious incident that once befell me.

I was staying in the country and one afternoon while out for a walk I rested on a wayside bank. On reaching I discovered that a sovereign had dropped out of my pocket. In vain I searched everywhere; no trace of the coin could I discover.

A year later I happened to be in the same district again, and during the course of a ramble found myself on the spot where I had lost the sovereign. I clambered up the bank to pick some flowers, but it gave way under me, and sent me to the bottom. On reaching myself up what do you think I found?

The sovereign, was the unanimous reply.

Wrong! I found a guinea. You see the sovereign had been in the bank a year, and had accumulated interest at the rate of five per cent.

A Pill That is Prized—There have been many pills put upon the market and pressed upon public attention, but none has endured so long or met with so much favor as Farnell's Vegetable Pills. Widespread use of them has attested their great value, and they need no further advertisement than this. Having firmly established themselves in public esteem they now rank without a peer in the list of standard vegetable preparations.

Designs of Bank Notes of the World

The most striking looking paper currency in the world is that of Russia. Its 100 rouble note being bordered from top to bottom with all the colors of the rainbow. In bold relief in the centre stands out a finely executed vignette in black. The remainder of the engraving is in dark and light brown ink, says the Newark News.

The Bank of England notes are simply printed in black ink on Irish linen, watermarked paper, plain white, with ragged edges. A badly scored or worn Bank of England note is rare, seen, for the reason that notes which in any way find their way back to the bank are immediately cancelled.

No new notes issued in their stead.

The notes of the Bank of France are made of white watermarked paper printed in black ink, with numerous mythological and allegorical pictures.

Animals are Good Patients

A piece of bone jammed between the molars of a Bengal tiger made the great cat furious, but when the Bronx meeting physicians touched the offending object with forceps she began to relax completely, and the bone was removed with ridiculous ease. The Bulletin of the Zoological Society reports the case of several other animals that proved to be far more satisfactory patients than human beings. All the great apes, for example, are perfect patients. But the gentle deer, which are high-strung, nervous creatures, are the most difficult of all to handle when

Pat's Excuse

Pat was late again. Somehow or other, try as he would, he did not seem able to get to work on time, and just about given out. The foreman was eloquent in his denunciation and snarled, nine o'clock. What d'yer mean by comin' in at this time, eh? It's a wonder a man of your m'ins troubles about comin' at all. Now, then, rot another excuse out.

Pat thought hard for a moment and said the excuse came:

I, er, sor, said he, I dreamt last night that I was at the football match, as it ended in a draw. So I, er, returned, as I had to be at the match, and as I, er, had to stop an' see the finish.

Tanning Materials in United States

The figures of the United States forestry service show that there are 22,000,000 worth of vegetable tanning material used every year in the United States. The chief source of tanning is hemlock bark, but the quantity used is steadily decreasing, owing to the depletion of the forests. The amount of bark utilized in the United States in 1905 was 930,000 tons, in 1907, 818,000 tons; in 1908, 818,000 tons; and in 1909, 818,000 tons.

There are in all, six sources of tanning; gail nuts, fruits of certain plants and leaves of some trees and shrubs. Wood of such trees as chestnut and shroob, bark of many trees and shrubs, roots of certain plants. The decrease in the amount derived from these usual sources of vegetable tanning is being met by introducing new materials and chemical substitutes. There appears to be a limit, however, to which substitutes can be successfully carried, and the question of a future supply of vegetable tanning is becoming a matter for serious consideration.

HANS N POLITICS.

Der German Cobbler Is Offered
Ward Leadership.

ALL A MATTER OF PULL.

But Honest Hans Finds That While
Honors and Callers Are Many So
Also Are the "Hot Touches"—Push
Better Than Pull.

By M. QUAD.

[Copyright, 1923, by Associated Literary Press.]

"I DON'T go in America but three years, but sometimes I think I know all about her."

Den sometimes I think I don't know nothings and should go for der crazy house. Der troubles I find it dot nothings vhas two times allis.

Sometimes der same thing vhas dis away and next time vhas dis odder. I like to go into politics, but der little German teller says it knocks out my peennes. Den der druggist comes in and says:

"Vhat you vwant in your peennes is a lot of politics, and you can't get him too quick."

It vhas about a few days ago dat a zatus comes in his shop and says he likes to speak to me in some confidence. I turns my dog outdoors and make der cat fly into der back yard and says he can go ahead.

"Do you like to go some rich man?" he whispered in my ear.

"Of course."

"Under boss dis ward and make der politicians take off der hats to you."

"Dot vhas me!"

"Und haf a cobbler shop and plate glass windows and six men working for you."

"But it can't be so," I says.

"It vill be so," he replies. "Der matter vill you vhas dot you don't haf some political pull. Mitout dot pull you vill only Hans der cobbler. Mit dot pull you vhas Hans der big man and boss. Effen der plumber and con man vhas afraid of you if you haf a pull."

"But how shall I get him?"

"Shust nah essay shay grease. You know me, don't you?"

"No, I never see you before."

Mayor's Confidential Man.

"Vheli, my name vhas Rogers, and I vhas der mayor's confidential man. He tells me everything and depends on me. I shall tell him dot you like a pull, and he vill gift you one in two days you vhas der boss of dis ward. Nobody can haf some office unless you say so, and you shall get 10 per cent on all contracts. In one year you vhas riding in your carriage."

"But I don't pay for some pupila," I says.

"I don't want any money from you. It vhas because you vhas a good fellow and I like to see you prosper. Of course, if I come around and want some shoes fixed, or if I send some of my friends, you shall make no charges. It vhas all for your job, you see. Vhat take care of us. I'll send a pair of shoes around dis evenings, and tomorrow some alderman vill drop in to pay some respects to der new lions."

I don't know about some politics and pupila, but I pefel mebbe he vhas all right, and it makes me happy. Next day I vhas thinking about dot plate glass front vhen a stranger comes in and shakes hands mit me and says:

"Vheli, Hans, I hear der news and come to see you. I vhas Alderman Blank, you know, and der mayor gifts you some pupila mit me. Der vhas no contracts shust now to gift out, but vhen der vhas I shall divide der profits mit you. I hope you shall have $10,000 next year. By der vhas, I like some lifts on my heels vill I wait."

Alderman Gives Advice.

I put some lifts on his heels, and all de time he takes to me about some pupila and dat a big man I vhas. Vhen he vhas ready to go out he says:

"It vhas all right, oh? I vhas der alderman, you see, and we work together. If any of der boys come in to see me."

In two hours more a second man comes in. He says he vhas der public buildings man, and vhen he shakes hands he winks and smiles and says:

"I vhas glad to hear of it, Hans. You vhas a good fellow, and dot pupila vill make you all right. I don't haf some shobs to gift out shust now, but vhen I do you vhas one thousand dollars ahead of der zime. Does der boy yecoman at dis beat take off his hat to you?"

"Not by Jugsful! He goes by dis morning and shakes his hat at me."

"Vheli I shall speak to him, and you vill see a difference. Say, Hans, here vhas two pairs of shoes to be fixed oop. Vhen you gift em done send 'em home. If any of my friends from der board of health come in treat 'em well."

It don't be fourteen minutes more before dot politicians comes in. He vhas smiling like a child and he takes off his hat and holds out his hand to me and says:

"Hans, I congratulate you. You vhas shust mit me shust der president of der Board of Health. It vhas for you to tell me vhat to do, and I shall do it. Shall I go oaffer and knock der mayor's secretary?"

I run der grocer in for having some cabages on der sidewalk? Shall I stop der street car from going by your shop vhen you haf der lunch?"

Shall I tell me vhat you want, and it shall be done."

Politician Pays His Respects.

Dot politicians vhas a smiling and good natured and tender hearted dot it brings tears to my eyes, but I tell him I don't want nothings dot day. He feels bad because he can't knock somebody's head off for me, but booty soon he vhas ready to go out, and he says:

"You see, der vhas two pulls and nra. Each pull must help der odder. Your pull can help my pull dis morning by letting me der doctor."

"I don't pefel I can."

"But you must. If one pulls goes on der odder dore vhas der devil to pay. Don't you be such a fool ash to spoil all your chances!"

I gift up my dollar, and he puts me on der back and says:

"Bully for der loss of der Seventh ward! Hans, if you lift long enough you vill be some man. Fly der vhas, my friend! Black, who vhas der school board, may drop in today. Use him vwell. It vill be for you to appoint all der school boys, and each one must pay five hundred dollars."

In about two hours dat man Black comes in. He shakes hands and says:

"Hans, you vhas der boss of dis ward. He looks around to see if I haf a pull of beer in der door and I don't haf any and py and py he says:

"In two weeks I come to see you about den more new schoolteachers, but today I shall vill in to try my respects and leave dis pair of shoes to be fixed oop. Did Hagan call here yet?"

"I don't see him no more."

Another "Touch" Made.

"Perhaps he vhas gone to der city hall, but he vill be sure to be here. Hagan vhas in der good man to work mit. If somebody else you can adjourn der case till dot fellow dies of old age. You vill bid him some awful good fellows, and I know he vill gift you py George, but I must forget some things."

"How vhas dot?"

"I changed my trousers when I come away and forget my cash. I haf to go to der funeral of my old friend Q. E. D. before I go home, and I like to borrow $2 of you until dis evenings."

"But I can't lend you $2," I says.

"Der you must. I haf a pull and you haf a pull, and we must be friends. Next week I lend you $2 if you want it. Dots de vhas it goes if you haf some pupila one hand washes der der. Cough up, Hans, cough up!"

I don't haf some coughs, but Mr. Black speaks to me till I haf to cough oop dot $2. It seems to me I haf a pull vhas all pull out oop my pocket, and I vhas wondering how it vhas when Mr. Hagan comes in. He smiles and laughs and shakes hands like some good fellows and den he says:

"Vheli, Hans, I do you a favor today. You vhas $2. O. Q. now, I haf it vhas not for use you vhas dis $2."

"How vhas dot?" I says.

"Vheli, somebody complains of der shooting parakeets into der school and der law vhas going to make you smart for it. It vhas all right now, however, and don't you worry. As soon as I found out der law haf some pupila I turned oop all der papers. Say, Hans, I haf my pocket picked on der street car and can't get no beefsteak and onions for dinner. Shust lend me $2 till 6 o'clock dis evenings."

"I haven't got it."

"Der you must borrow him. Push and pull."

I don't want to do it, but he vhas so sleek dot I haf to, and vhen he goes away he says dot his friend Thomas of der sewer department vill be in before night. For so hour I don't work, but sit and think. Den I vhas ready for Mr. Thomas. He comes in at 4 o'clock and takes off his hat and smiles and says:

"I hope I see you well, old man. My name vhas Thomas, and I heard about your pull and come."

"So you heard about my pull?" I says.

"Did you also hear some things else about my pull?"

"No. How vhas it?"

"Vhat vhas it?" I says ash I take him py der shoulder and turn him about and send him away der shent fly away, and I lock my door on twenty. I vhas a fool sometimes, but not all der time."

Cadet Life at West Point.

Briefly, at 8:45 p. m. the cadet week is over for the day and drill for all classes occupy the hour from 4 to 6, followed by a dress parade at 8:25, excepting Wednesdays and Saturdays.

This is the schedule from Sept. 1 to Nov. 1 and from March 16 to June 1. On Saturdays academic work ends at 12:30, and with the exception of inspection at 1:50, and the afternoon of the day.

Games are played on the West Point grounds with teams from many colleges, and the season closes with the annual rivalry game between the West Pointers meet the midshipmen from Annapolis on Franklin field, Philadelphia. Basket ball follows during the season, and then in the spring comes baseball of course—Popular Mechanics.

Woman and Her Hat.

A woman cannot stick a hat on better than as you stick a cork into a bottle. There is an ingenious machine that sticks stamps on letters at the rate of several thousand a minute.

But no woman would dream of putting a hat in less than an hour. Often a woman will acquire a splitting headache in the attempt to find one hat to suit her out of a hundred and not seldom she carries away the headache without a hat on it.

As the hat business is a small part of the daily agony of shopping, and yet a man would rather cut his throat than engage in a hat hunt as a dispassionate observer would prefer to hunt the fox or the stag, the tiger or the lion, the grizzly or the grouse. A tiger hunt is not nearly so serious as a hat hunt.—London Opinion.

Profits in Waste Paper.

The sale of waste paper used to attract peripatetics for government officials. When John McCulloch of Dictionary of Commerce fame was appointed comptroller of the stationery office in 1841, he discovered that the proceeds from the sale of government waste paper were divided among the procuring officers.

When the new comptroller doubled their official incomes. The new comptroller prohibited this practice on the ground that all moneys derived from such sale belonged to the exchequer. Some of the officials regarded this prohibition and continued to sell waste paper and pocket the proceeds.

When the case of McCulloch they were prosecuted for "systematic appropriation of public property." For many years the stationery office has made over $10,000 a year from the sale of waste paper.—London Mail.

Jenny Lind's California Debut.

At Monterey, Cal., formerly a part of Mexico and ceded to the United States during the Mexican war, is the first public building built in California and now a broken down, weather racked ruin of adobe. In this building Jenny Lind made her first California debut, and when the gold enthusiastic miners had thrown upon the stage after her performance was gathered up.

It was found to fill two five-gallon cans—about twenty pounds of gold and equal in value to about $5,000. Another curious building is the police station which is built within the braces of an old derrick and for unique buildings certainly establishes a record.—Health Magazine.

"And I was valedictorian of my class."

To like to be a rich man.

PRINCE JOHN GLAD.

King's Youngest Son Glad in the Fact That He's a Boy.

Prince John, the youngest son of the King and Queen, recently celebrated his eighth birthday.

His father, King John, is a very, very young little boy. Sometimes when he has been so lately baptised the name "John" has been whispered by relations who regard him as the cause of a most unfortunate.

Not so long ago he was in deep distress. He managed to get his face with brilliant stripes of color. Thus ornamented, he reached the dining room, where the King and Queen were entertaining a distinguished party to lunch.

Exit the Prince.

Prince John is afraid of no one. His only fear is to displease his mother.

He thought you meant to be good during Lent, John," Her Majesty said. "And as I did, mother; but you never told me when I promised that Lent was going to be so long," was the reply.

On another occasion a young matron was having tea with the Queen. She was very anxious to renew acquaintance with the Prince, and so the Queen sent for him. He was very pleasant and polite when he came, and, his mother having dismissed himself as he pleased, while the Queen and her guests took no further notice of him.

Meanwhile, the Prince climbed upon an ottoman behind where the guest sat, and was admiring a diamond ornament in the corner of the room.

When the guest rose to leave a disconcerting sight met the eye of the Prince.

The little Prince and his nursery governess used to be seen sometimes in the Palace Road and in the Green Park, his Royal Highness liking to see life beyond the limits of the palace gardens.

One Buckingham Palace was a flower woman, who was an old acquaintance of the Prince.

One day, when the time of day with her he went by, and as he did so, he saw his hat on the ground.

It was because of this salute that the elastic which his hat has fastened has been removed so as to give him scope to express his chivalrous intentions.

"Why does Mary wear a hat with a feather in it?" he demanded.

He offered the other day, as his sister and the King and Queen were about to start of from Buckingham Palace.

"Girls have to wear queer things! I'm glad I'm a boy!"—Daily Mirror.

Knew Nothing of Golf.

Now that ladies have their own golf championships, their own clubs, and even a journal devoted to their doings on the links, it is a little difficult to recall the time when a lady played the majority of womankind knew nothing about the game, except that it took place in a garden.

One day, when the game was being played at home a good deal.

The Glasgow Herald some anecdotes of that period. One lady, making sympathetic conversation with a male stranger, said:

"I often see many of you play golf!"

A younger lady said she had exactly how the game was played. "They get what they call caddies to hunt about the links, and they hit it into a rabbit hole."

A third lady, who had evidently enjoyed the game for many years, said:

"It is played by two men. One is a man. The common man sticks a ball on a lump of dirt, and the gentleman knocks it off."

To Rob Holland of the Rhine.

That their great river should be last day of the year to a number of months in foreign territory has long been a cause of sentimental regret to the German people.

The society has now been formed at Coblenz to secure the acceleration of the river.

It urges that the Rhine, instead of flowing as it does, northwest through the Netherlands, ought to flow from Duisburg, in Rhenish Prussia, north west of Emden, the most westerly point of the German empire.

The distance would be about 150 miles, and no locks would be needed.

A canal that would cost $187,500,000 is asked for and it is said that such a waterway would capture the traffic which now goes to Rotterdam and the Max, and that in a few years Emden would become a world port.

A year ago the Prussian minister of public works announced that the government had agreed to the project favorably and had it under consideration. The new society starts under favorable auspices.

"Fussy" Whiskers.

Because a cat can go about as safely and rapidly in the dark without injury to himself or without running into anything, the cat is a creature of the night. We see that to a certain extent, in the dark is quite true, but it is doubtful if he could go about so rapidly in total darkness were not for his long whiskers, and you will see they are always as long, generally longer, as his head is long, and a cat's head is as wide as his body. These delicate hairs that project from the corners of the cat's face are wonderful mechanisms, says the "Fort Elizabeth (South Africa) Observer."

It is instantly felt by the animal, though the hair itself may be tough and is sensitive.

Her Way.

"There's a young woman who makes little things count."

"How does she do it?"

"She counts arithmetic in a primary school."

KEEP HOUSE COOL.

Ways of Preventing the Summer
Home From Becoming Hot.

LET IN THE GOOD NIGHT AIR.

It is Particularly Important That Attic and Cellar Should Have Proper and Sufficient Ventilation—Neglect of This Causes Trouble.

Keeping the house cool in summer is not always an easy problem to solve. People who have large houses and money enough to equip them with electric fans and other appliances can, of course, keep very comfortable, but it is more difficult to manage it in small houses.

Windows must be shaded with blinds, shutters, or awnings, and be well screened. All the heavy hangings should be removed and where possible the carpets should be taken up and stored in the attic.

Light colors, such as white, gray, light greens and blues, should take the place of the warmer colors. Then white muslin curtains, or the lightest of gauze, many people object to even that much drapery.

The coolest hours of summer are the night hours. Therefore the night air should be allowed to circulate freely through every part of the house.

Good circulation is obtained by having windows open at the top and bottom instead of entirely at the bottom. This lets out the hot air and lets in the cool, fresh air.

Let the air in the lower story of one window of each room and in the upper story of another.

As it is important that sunlight, too, should enter the house at some time of the day, open all the blinds and windows in the morning, when the sun is shining. Then, when the sun is shining, the house should be closed for the rest of the day.

It is especially important that the attic and cellar should have proper ventilation. In the former a skylight or window should be kept open night and day, and, of course, when it rains. The cellar windows should be open only at night when it is comparatively cool. Open them at sundown and close them at 8 o'clock in the morning.

Neglect of this method of airing the cellar causes a great deal of trouble. In wet weather the windows are not closed during the heat of the day, moisture laden air enters the cellar and condenses on walls, pipes, masonry, etc.

The colder the surface the greater will be the amount of moisture that will condense upon it. The result is that the cellar will be damp and that it will not be a suitable place for keeping food.

Sydney Smith had been ill, and a friend having called on him, he inquired what sort of night he had passed. "Oh, horrid, horrid, my dear fellow!" I dreamed I was chained to a rock and was doomed to death by Harriet Martineau and Macnamy."

Don't Wait Too Long.

Do not place your trust too confidently in the saying, "It is never too late to mend." A big batch is sometimes as conspicuous as a hole.—Youth's Companion.

Don't For Summer.

Don't forget to leave off your overcoat. A careful observance of this rule will be for exceedingly constructive the acceleration of the evaporation of the perspiration.

Don't become heated. There are several excellent ways to keep cool, any one or all of which we heartily recommend. It is becoming heated in summer that causes by far the largest part of the disease.

Don't keep your head under water too long while in swimming unless you are wearing a diver's helmet. The exigencies of the human physiology require continuous and relatively regular connection of the respiratory organs with the oxygen of the atmosphere.

Don't have a fire in the furnace except for Turkish baths, drying paint, entertaining Boston Indians, etc. Fur-nace fires in the summer tend to raise the temperature.—Life.

Case For Psychological Research.

Don't eat men and lions. As we've all of us seen, lions are not the country of the lion.

With a little choice of cause, by the same common law, must to die by them down.

Now, these lean men and fat—Flash counts not, we know that a rock and a hard place are the same.

Don't Nag
Nagging becomes a habit, and the woman who wants to make her home happy will avoid it like the plague. It never does the slightest good, because if a man is nagged, at his faults only increase. How gets tired of being perpetually reminded of them and of having his shortcomings dinned into his ears.

Women generally nag because they are tired—tired out and nervous, but this is no real excuse for it.

Try being sweet, and it will have a much better effect.

NERVOUS BREAKDOWN

Usually Due to Overwork and Worry—A Tonic is Needed

Overwork and worry give rise to nervousness, sleeplessness, headaches, lack of ambition and lack of interest in your work, weak back, indigestion and sometimes a complete breakdown of the nervous system. On every hand you find victims of this kind and often they do not know what to do for themselves. If these are your symptoms you need a tonic, and the only way to tone up the nerves is through the blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a direct nerve tonic because they curtail and build up the blood, and it is through the blood that the nerves are fed. Under their tonic influence nervousness, with all its attendant evils, disappears, and the worried sufferer again enjoys health and strength. Proof of the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in nervous troubles is given by Mrs. Lora Scheving, Lander, Man., who says:—"I was attacked with nervous trouble which almost drove me to distraction. It would be almost impossible for words to describe my condition. The least thing would startle me and leave me trembling for an hour. I had nervous headaches, and slept very badly at nights, some nights not at all. My appetite grew poor, and I was really a physical wreck. I had been to several doctors and had taken many different medicines, but without any benefit. Then I read of a case similar to mine, cured by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I sent for a dozen boxes fully believing it would take at least that many to cure me. You can judge of my gratitude, however, when I found that after using only half a dozen boxes I was again enjoying the best of health, and have since remained well and strong. I used the remainder of the pills among my children when they seemed out of sorts, and have found them at all times to be the very best of family medicines."

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Approves of the numerous accidents that befall foreign submarines. Law in Nixon, the eminent shipbuilder, said at the Union club in New York: "Two French government officials were once discussing naval affairs. To what account, said the first, did our new submarines, the X and XI, boat be charged?" To the sinking fund, of course, was the reply.

Useful in Camp.—Explorers, surveyors, prospectors and hunters will find Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil very useful in camp. When the feet and legs are wet and cold it is well to rub them freely with the oil and the result will be the prevention of pains in the muscles and should a cut, or contusion, or sprain be sustained, nothing could be better as a dressing or lotion.

MAKING MOTION PICTURE FILMS

One Company Spends $50,000 A Year
Just to Robe Its Various Productions

Every frequenter of the motion picture theatres must have been struck at some time or another, by the luxuriance of the stage setting of most of the society dramas, the magnificence of the decorations, the richness of the furnishings, and the costliness of the dresses worn by the performers.

Few, however, have any real conception of the huge cost of these things, or appreciate the pains taken by the big film producing companies to get the best of everything.

Take, for instance, the costume of the principal actresses. The capital of Europe are ransacked for the latest creations in millinery and modest when Miss Miriam Nesbitt and Miss Mary Fuller were last over here with the Edison Company, they paid a visit to Paris for the purpose of purchasing a stock of such things for future Edison productions, and in two days' shopping they spent more than $15,000.

Miss Lotte Briscoe, the Lubin star actress, recently played in a film which necessitated no fewer than fourteen changes of costume, each costing on an average about $15, and she wore in that film twenty trunks full of her wardrobe.

Miss Gene Gannier wears one set of furs in the Kalem films at cost $4,000, and she has other sets almost equally as valuable. Miss Asta Neilson is credited with being the most expensively dressed actress in the pictures. Frequently her costumes in the society scenes in which she appears, ladies will cost as much as $500 apiece.

It might be thought that the actual dresses worn by the performers are not seen by the public, but only the photographic representations of them, that common material or imitation stuff would do as well as the real articles.

But, as a matter of fact, this is far from being the case. Indeed, the very reverse holds good. To get a really first-class photograph, first-class properties must be provided.

Even the early days of the picture play business this was not properly realized, and a company that had out $5,000 on a collection of properties, although expecting them to last for years, was considered extravagant.

Nowadays, on the other hand, it would be a very cheap affair that would start with less than $15,000 or $20,000 worth, while one of the best known of the really big film companies is reported to spend as much as $50,000 every year in dressing—or, it is technically termed, "robing" its shows.

There are those who seem to be born with the instinct to disagree. I have in mind at this time one such person. I have heard him express emphatically a certain opinion, and then, perhaps a day or two later, I have heard him denounce the same opinion expressed in his presence by someone else.

Sometimes, of course, this kind of thing is done by those who love argument for the sake of the intellectual exercise. But in this instance it was done simply and solely to the love of disagreeing.

If we did not spend so much time in trying to disagree, if we did not torment ourselves with the ill feeling that accompanies the will to disagree, we should be surprised at the strange improvement in the people and in the world about us.

We should find that, through persistent self assertion, instead of gaining we lost.

We should also discover that through resisting the desire to disagree, through giving people as good a chance to express themselves as we long to give ourselves, we should exert a far greater influence than we do now, and we should be heard often and with more profit—From "Intimations," by John D. Barry, Paul Rider & Company, Publishers.

Shortly after a new administration took hold of a walkway southern railroad a great number of claims were preferred against the company on account of horses and cattle being killed along the line in Kentucky. To make matters worse it appeared that every animal killed, however worthless it may have been before the accident, subsequently presented as being of the best blood in Kentucky.

One day in conversation with one of the road's attorneys, the president became very much excited in referring to the situation. "Do you know," he exclaimed, bringing down his fist on the desk by way of emphasis, "I have reached the conclusion that nothing in Kentucky so improves live stock as crossing it with a locomotive."

A new bean which grows prolifically with little or no water has been discovered and is being investigated by the Arizona department of agriculture.

My dear, says the kind-hearted husband, I do not wish to say anything about our extravagant way of keeping house, but do you know it is a fact that the average French family lives on what the average American family wastes.

But, my angel, comments the helpful wife, that would be impossible. In the first place, the cost of sending it to France would be too great, and besides it would spoil before it got there.

LEPROSY AND FISH

Noted Surgeon's Death Recalls His Theories of Disease

Sir Jonathan Hutchinson, the famous surgeon, who died at Halesmere, England, at the age of fifty-four, devoted much time to the study of the origin of leprosy. He formed the theory that the disease was due to the eating of diseased or imperfectly cured fish, and to confirm his view he set out at the age of seventy for a long tour in India and Borneo Island, Cape Colony.

His writings did much to secure better conditions for leprosy sufferers.

In bygone times, he once wrote, I used to call leprosy "fish-eaters' gout," but he latterly preferred the description: "fish-eaters' tuberculosis."

Leprosy, he said again, advanced in inland districts of Europe with the advent of Christianity, and the observance of fish fasts, and it disappeared when Protestantism threw fasts into disuse. This contention brought him into conflict with the heads of the Roman Catholic Church.

Sir Jonathan, who lived in Halesmere for fifty years, was the founder of the educational museum there, the superintendence of which he counted as one of his recreations.

Stomach Troubles and Weakness of Kidneys Cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

There is an enormous amount of suffering from liver and kidney derangements, and a simple application that could easily be avoided by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Every day I find a large number of everyday ills that arise from a sluggish condition of the kidneys, liver and bowels, which would not be long in giving this medicine a trial.

Dr. Edward Stewart, New Richmond, Wis., writes: "I can do my own washing and any other work now and want to say to all friends that they do not know how much I appreciate Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills."

Little Polly coming in from her walk one morning informed her mother that she had seen a lion in the park.

No amount of persuasion or reasoning could make her vary her statement one hairbreadth. That night, when she slipped down on her knees to say her prayers, her mother said: "Polly, ask God to forgive you for that lie."

Polly hid her face for a moment. Then she looked straight into her mother's eyes, her own shining like stars, and said: "I did it, mamma, dearest, and he said: 'Don't mention it. Miss Polly, that big yellow dog has often foiled me.'"

Long Standing Asthma.—Many have suffered so long from asthma and have tried so many so-called remedies they think that there is no real help for them. They should read the letters received by the manufacturers of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy from thousands of cases as desperate as their own. Even in long-neglected cases this famous preparation brings prompt help.

Hair-Cutting Causes Baldness

Several matters of interest to the hair-owners engaged the attention of the British Medical Conference at Brighton recently. Dr. Barend, a Dutch specialist, for example, suggested too much hair-cutting as a cause of baldness.

Why is it that there are so many bald men and so few bald women? he asked. "I believe it is because men will not let their hair grow to a proper length. The average man wears his hair about an inch long, whereas it should be at least thirty or forty inches."

Dr. Barend afterward explained that he considered the matter as affronted by frequent cutting of the hair. If it is not allowed to grow to the length I have mentioned it becomes dry and loses its strength, much in the same way that the muscles of the body become flabby and weak if they are not exercised.

Dr. David Walsh, a Harley street skin specialist, told the meeting that he considered the abnormal loss of hair on the head, as well as many skin diseases, were largely associated with defective circulation of the blood. Loss of hair might often be taken as a sign of heart trouble. In support of this he found that out of thirty-six bald persons he had examined twenty-four were suffering from valvular disease of the heart.

Dr. Edmonds, however, mentioned the case of an extremely bald man who was one of the most powerful gymnasts he knew.

Speaking before another section at the conference, Dr. F. Winslow declared that we are quite wrong in our methods of taking food. He would not promise any short cut to the millennium but he suggested that mankind should enjoy much better health if they would only recognize the fact that it is wrong to drink at meal times. All drinks should be taken between meals. It was not talking about alcohol; in fact, he entirely dissociated his present contention from any discussion of temperance. What he wanted people to do was to eat without any sipping at all.

Simple and Sure.—Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil is a simple application that a child can understand the instructions. Used as a liniment the oil is rubbed into the rub, and when used as a dressing to apply. The directions are so plain and unmistakable that they are readily understood by young or old.

Henry James, the American novelist, lives at Rye, one of the Claque Ports, but recently he left Rye and a house in the country near the estate of a millionaire jam manufacturer, retired. This man, having received an order for jam, being ashamed of the trade whereby he had piled up his fortune.

The janitor told me one day wrote Mr. James an impudent letter saying that it was outrageous the way the janitor's servants were trespassing on his grounds. Mr. James wrote back:

Dear Sir:—I am very sorry to hear that my servants have been poaching on your preserves.

P.S.—You'll excuse my mentioning your preserves, won't you?

The Rev. Dr. John Wesley Hill, of New York, told the following story the other night in illustration of a point he wished to make.

I am reminded, he said, of the Irishman whose alarm clock stopped running. He shook it, but it would not run. He waited but it did not improve, and then one day he took the back out of it, looked in and saw a dead cockroach. Surely enough, said he, I've discovered the difficulty. The cockroach is dead!

Love of Canada
There was a small rain and air, and a few dark fleecy over, making no sound.

Presently he spoke with a half laugh and a half break of love in the words: To love you isn't enough, he said. God grant we're ready to suffer and work for you—Canada.

The telephone bell rang in the consulting room of a doctor who was an assistant answered it, and said the doctor was out.

"My left side pained me all the time and just before my period which were irregular and painful it would be worse, and I would sit down and cry and I would be so nervous sometimes that I could not bear to see any one or hear any one speak. ROBERT WHITFIELD, PRINTER AND PUBLISHER.

CROSSFIELD, ALTA., OCT. 30, 1913.

Retail Merchants' Association.

A meeting was held at the Alberta Hotel, Crossfield, on Monday evening with the object of forming a branch of the above Association in Crossfield.

Mr. F. Laut was chairman for the earlier part of the proceedings.

Mr. J. A. Bucknall, Provincial Secretary, attended to organise the branch and explain the objects of the association.

There was a good representative gathering of the business men of the town present. After a few preliminaries had been arranged the chairman asked Mr. Bucknall to explain the aims and objects of the association, which he did in a very lucid manner, explaining how the merchants from east to west were linked up in a membership of over 150,000 to their mutual advantage in many ways.

After a few questions had been asked the election of officers was proceeded with and a branch duly formed.

The following are the first officers: President, T. G. Elliott; 1st Vice-President, F. Laut; 2nd Vice-President, A. W. Gordon; Treasurer, Wm. Urquhart; Secretary, W. McKory.

It behoves all those business men who have not already joined to do so as it will be to their advantage.

To the Editor, Sir.—To be able to intelligently reply to a letter as the one which appeared in last week's Chronicle, a person would have to snoop down to the level of the same contempt for right and justice as the originator supposed to be a reply to my letter of the previous week. In the first place I want to draw the attention of all fair minded ratepayers to the following facts, and ask them to judge whether I have cause for what I say or not. On the 16th day of October last three cows were seen in Mr. Elliott's garden, enjoying a special feast of cabbage, I may say they were not mine, or they would have been put in the back yard of McPhie and Wicks livery barn, the pound. Those were left alone by our worthy Village Constable as well as a red cow, which three days later paid a visit to Mr. Jessiman's garden, evidently attracted by the green and juicy appearance of the cabbages, no doubt but it was one of the three which had been seen three days before and which seems to have special permission to investigate all back yards in the hope of eating up all there may be to there. Where was our worthy policeman then, no doubt enjoying a social pipe, it being reported that it was not out of Beckers cows, so there was no need of disturbing him. The day before my cows were last impounded about six stray horses paid a friendly visit to Mr. Engle's garden. As they no doubt are acquainted with his honor's leniency towards such lovely animals as themselves. They were sure they could cheat Mr. Engle's cow, and drove her in the pound with mine, the horses going from the day before. Is this justice? Just because he has a couple of horses of his own he has a soft feeling towards horses that run around. At my place some time ago one of his horses was filling himself with oats out of my barn. Regarding the mare and colt I mentioned in my last letter that invited public inspection in front of the Alberta Hotel, according to the policeman's own words belonged to the chairman. I may say they were not impounded the day I drew his attention to them, is that right and justice? I would like to know if the C.P.R. would come on to our policeman if he was to drive the stray cows from their right of way (that is nonsense), he has just as much right to drive them off the C.P.R. right of way as he has to drive them away from our front street.

I just mentioned in my first letter a few facts of what had taken place at the Council's smoker, and of which the public knew nothing about, such as special by-laws and resolutions. Why should they not publish them and let the ratepayers know what is going on, then the public would have a chance to discuss anything that may be done by the council that directly concerns them, as in the case of this impending by-law. I'm not after anybody's hide, but I resent those who seek after the few hard earned dollars I may be possessed of by not giving warning beforehand of what they intend to do under certain conditions.

As regards me not being awake, I am sure the village constable would whistle a different tune were he to open his eyes at the same time I do in the morning and get to work. There is a sure proof of who is asleep or awake in the fact that the scavenging of our village is carried on in broad daylight, thereby creating a nuisance to the public. This is a condition of affairs that I am sure is not permitted in other communities. If he wants the village to be in a sanitary condition such work should be done after daylight, as it always has been done in the past years.

Thanking you Mr. Editor for the space in your paper, and hoping that the few hints I have passed on may have the effect of improving our village to the extent of allowing the public to be the judge of all the actions of its servants.

I remain,

Yours truly,

GEO. BECKER.
